The diagram shows a rectangular room layout. At the top, there is a horizontal line representing a wall. A curved line indicates a door opening into the room from the top-left. Along this top wall, there are two small square symbols with a cross inside, representing light fixtures. In the upper right area, a rectangular box is labeled 'teaching station'. The central area of the room is labeled 'Maxwell 110'. The bottom wall features several rectangular protrusions, likely representing desks or storage units, with a square light fixture symbol centered below the main section.
